MAR 0 3 2006 B Annendments to the Claims:

1. (currently amended) A rotary shelf mechanism comprising: a post; at least one shelf connected to the post, the post having pin-receiving apertures proximate the at least one connected shelf, each of the at least one shelf having a post-encircling sleeve including an operably connected pin-receiving indent; and a pin extending through the post-receiving apertures and being cooperatively received by the pin-receiving indent of the at least one shelf to secure the at least one shelf to the post wherein the post-encircling sleeve of the at least one shelf has a post-receiving opening, the pin-receiving indent is a rectangularly shaped recess having first and second ends and at least partial first and second sides communicating with the post-receiving opening, the pin is an elongated element having first and second ends and a cylindrically shaped pin body portion, and the pin-receiving indent engages the first and second pin ends and the cylindrically shaped pin body portion when the pin operably secures the at least one shelf to the post.

- 2. (canceled)
- 3. (canceled)
- 4. (canceled)
- 5. (original) The mechanism as claimed in claim 1 wherein the post is

6. (original) The mechanism as claimed in claim 1 wherein the post and shelf rotate as one unit.